Banks chosen as person of the year

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

When Mary Ann Banks agreed to attend a special Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce luncheon Friday, she did not expect to be the guest of honor.

Chamber officials announced Banks is the 1990 Romulus Person of the Year.

"I was so stunned," Banks said. "I'm sure there are other people more qualified than me. It's quite an honor."

Banks was given the award after an extensive selection process by the Person of the Year committee. The chamber board of directors voted on the finalists.

Banks, a lifelong resident of Romulus, recently retired from a 12-year stint as mayor pro tem and city council president.

During her work in city government, Banks was a strong promoter of senior citizen housing, residential and business development and safe public parks.

Banks was instrumental in establishing the Romulus Police Department.

Along with her responsibilities to city council, Banks volunteered her time in high schools, talking to students about city government and helping to establish Student Government Day at city hall.

She has been a member of the Romulus Historical Society since 1979.

As an employee of Romulus Community Schools, Banks has chaired school activities, fairs and festivals.

She has offered her time to St. Aloysius Church activities.

The selection process for the person of the year begins Oct. 1 when nominations forms are distributed throughout the community.

After the deadline, nominations are narrowed to three.

Next, a written summary of the remaining nominees is completed. Names are not included. It is the biographical information the chamber board of directors uses for a final vote.

Members of the Romulus Person of the Year Committee are Dennis Worsley, chairman; and Donna Hoevemeyer, Mark Lewkowicz, Jason Lovette, Christa Quandt and Gil White, members.

Questionnaire results show division over old South school

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Some residents would be happy to see the old South Middle School torn down tomorrow.

Others want the building to be repaired and put back into use as a reminder of Romulus history.

Debate over the first city high school has raged on for half a year.

Built in 1930, South was closed last summer when Romulus school officials discovered asbestos, a suspected cancer causing agent, in the building.

Although the building was recently placed on the market for sale, it is tentatively scheduled for demolition this summer.

Some residents claim the building represents city heritage and must be saved. They suggest using it as a community center.

That suggestion has met with sharp opposition from residents who live near South.

When the argument came to city officials, they decided to put it on the election ballot. Voters will decide whether to chip in the tax money to repair the aging building.

A recent questionnaire in The Romulus Roman asked residents what they think should be done with the building. From 11 responses, three people called for demolition.

"We have to be realistic, we just don't have the money," wrote Jan Lemmon of Porter Street. "We like our section of town just as it is. We put up with all the noise and fights that went on at Kennedy Park."

Mary Collins of Olive Street has additional concerns.

"City government has no money; therefore, residents would have to be willing to provide necessary funds," Collins said. "The building is not centrally located and would become a burden to the local residents."

Arguments for saving the building usually encouraged the idea of a renovating it into a community center.

"Romulus needs a community center for all of its people. Old South Middle School could serve this purpose. It would cost less than a new building and would still retain some of the history of Romulus," wrote Pearl Varner, president of the Romulus Historical Society.

Paulette Dugan of Biddle Street wrote: "The above location is easy to get to, accessible to townspeople. All churches in town could use the building for youth activities. Excellent for a community center, not just for recreation."

Helen Hay, an outspoken supporter of the building, wrote, "Personally, we would enjoy an exercise room with equipment suitable for senior citizens. Young couples want child care service. People speak well of the community center in Wayne, and some of our parents are able to transport their kids there occasionally. Most parents are not able to do this."

Kenneth Krueger of Romaine Street said: "The former high school building on Olive Street should be saved because it is of sound structure and could be used for a number of purposes such as apartment complex, office complex, mini-mall. When visiting Europe, it was not uncommon to see buildings that were 600 and 700 years old."

Second cable channel is set

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Crammed with a new shipment of equipment, the city control room for cable television seems to close in on coordinator Oliver Warren.

Warren is cheerful about the tight quarters. The new equipment signals the beginning of a new channel, Channel 43.

Channel 43 is on the air a few hours a day.

The second city channel became necessary after members of the Romulus Cable Commission decided earlier this year the first city channel, Channel 40, was not meeting growing demands for programming.

Also, requests from local churches to use Channel 40 brought up the issue of the separation of church and state, the commission said.

Eventually, Channel 40 was designated a government channel. Channel 43 will be used for community programs.

Warren said the channel has special effects generators, monitors, power units for cameras and editing equipment.

"We're practically together now," he said.

The commission also has two new cameras already being used for taping city meetings. With a second channel, use of the government channel can be expanded.

"We'll be taping every city function that requests it," Warren said.

Warren said the potential of the two stations is unlimited. With the schools participating in a yearlong anti-drug campaign, plans are in the works for cable coverage on both channels.

Meetings of the local Right to Life organization are being

Plans for Eloise property are uncertain

By PAMELA LANDIS
ANP News Editor

Plans for development at the Eloise property are on hold until Wayne County officials meet with Westland Mayor-elect Robert Thomas, according to a county official.

Michael Duggan, aide to county executive Edward McNamara, said the county is maintaining and using several buildings on the 200-plus acres bounded by Michigan Avenue and Merriman Road.

"Eventually we will be doing something," Duggan said.

"Nothing is on the front-burner right now."

The county is using D Building, the power house and commissary. The other buildings eventually will be demolished, he said.

Duggan said the county has had discussions with Mayor Charles "Trav" Griffin on possible plans for the site.

"Whatever direction we will take now with Eloise will have to come after we have talked with Mayor-elect Thomas," he said. "Plans for Eloise are on hold until the new mayor gets settled in."

Some economic development officials in western Wayne County have suggested the property be converted into a combination multi-family, low-rise apartments, light manufacturing and retail center.

Thomas said he is studying reports done on the possible use of the property.

"Nothing is really definite," he said.

Thomas said he expects interest in the property will peak once Merriman Road is widened and improvements are made to the road. That is expected to happen within the next year or two.

"It's a valuable piece of property," Thomas said.

The property and buildings located there were once home to the poor of the area. The poorhouse was later converted into hospital space. Most of the buildings are now vacant.

Good drivers rewarded

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Insisting the traffic light back was green, 50 people last week were ready for a good argument when they were pulled over by officers of the Wayne County Sheriff Department.

These people were pulled over for showing good driving skills.

Road patrol officers sought out good drivers Dec. 13 and 14, issuing $10 Kroger gift certificates instead of tickets.

To qualify, motorists had to obey traffic signals, show proper use of turn signals and observe the speed limit.

"Basically, it's done to promote good drivers," said Nancy Mouradian, director of public information for the sheriff department.

During this season, she said, those who drink and drive tend to be a major source of attention.

This is the second year for the program. As usual, people became a little nervous when they were signaled to pull over.

"Most of them had a very puzzled look," Mouradian said.

POP.

You've only been gone a few months now. My head tells me it's for the best because you aren't suffering, but deep inside my heart, you've left a huge empty space.

I can't believe I'm not going to see you walking through town again. There you'd be with your mismatched clothes and cap on, smiling, waving, greeting everyone. That's my pop!

All the family gatherings where we'd laugh and joke around. Your bottle cap trick, the styrofoam cup eyes, how we'd bug you to burp and poor mom always got embarrassed.

Well, you did all those crazy things and we could always count on you to put two oranges in your shirt and put a woman's wig on, or sing out - La La! - for no special reason, or to do the hula out of the clear blue sky. That was you; the gentle, innocent clown.

You destroyed the English language with your "brooming out the floor", they have "dooble kids" (twins); "was ist das loogie", when all the time you knew how to say "Fudge". Or your "drakoola", "vitch", "unitrust". Every mispronounced word was a joy to hear. We loved they way you talked and we were proud of your heavy accent.

The day you died, a bright light went out, but a spark shines in each and every one of our hearts thanks to you. We miss you Pa. We love you and we'll never forget you.

But as Michael says, we know you're in heaven teaching God how to play the door.

Hobby turns profit for one area crafter

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Give her a few ribbons, a flower or two, some pods and Lorene Warden can work magic.

Warden decided to turn her hobby into profit a few years ago.

Now, the Romulus resident crafts centerpieces for her friends and neighbors from a workshop in her basement.

The holidays are her busy season. Warden said she works with grapevine wreaths, ceramic mice in red and white caps and sparkling honeycomb ribbons for a festive effect.

But Warden is quick to point out she can create a centerpiece for any occasion.

"I can do just about anything people need. I'm happy to say I haven't had any returns."

When a customer comes to Warden, the first step is determining what the person has in mind is size, price range and colors. Warden usually asks where the centerpiece will be displayed.

From there, she sits down, relaxes and allows herself to create.

Rarely does she have a picture in her mind of a finished product. Instead Warden lets the pieces fall into place, creating a different effect each time. For a medium-sized piece, the process takes roughly one hour.

"Usually I just pick up a piece and start," she said.

Although Warden has worked in a flower shop, most of her skills are self-taught.

"I've been interested in it for years. It's relaxing. I usually work at the end of a busy day. I just like to be creative."

Usually, Warden opts for natural items for her centerpieces - lotus pods, pine cones (hand gathered), bell cups and flowers.

But for the holidays she adds miniature elves, fruits, tiny ornaments, silver thistles and Christmas mice.

"I like doing the seasonal wreaths," she added.

Warden has a large collection of straw and grapevine wreaths along with woven hats, bells and baskets. Also in her workshop are floral pieces for weddings.

All in all, Warden says, she simply enjoys the chance to be creative.

"Of all the hobbies I've done this is the one I enjoy the most," she said.

For an appointment with Warden, call 941-2328.

Crafting centerpieces with flowers has long been an interest of Lorene Warden (right), so her decision to enter the business world did not come as a surprise to her family. Warden's creations range from pine cones and ornaments for the holidays to straw wreaths with flowers (above). ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Treasurer's office helps senior citizens with taxes

With help from the city treasurer's office next week, local senior citizens can delay paying their summer property tax, submitting the money later by using a tax refund.

The process begins in June when seniors send tax deferment applications to the city treasurer's office.

The deferment, offered to seniors who earn less than $20,000 a year, allows people to wait until the end of February to pay their summer property tax bills.

After that, seniors can apply for the Michigan Homestead Property Tax Credit and use it to pay their property taxes.

Staff at treasurer's office can help people fill out the forms.

"They don't have to pay the money out of their savings...it makes it a little easier," treasurer James Napiorkowski said of the process.

This service has been available in Romulus approximately five years, offered through the assessment office and then the recreation department.

For the last two years, Napiorkowski's office has provided the service.

"Usually, I block out two or three days a week for appointments," Napiorkowski said.

Filling out the forms takes roughly 15 minutes per person. Returns have been known to arrive within two weeks, the treasurer added.

"It's a simple refund."

When working with people who did not realize they could apply for the tax credit before, Napiorkowski has helped them request refunds for up to five years.

Refunds can amount up to $1,200.

Homestead credits are not limited to property owners, Napiorkowski added.

For renters, 17 percent of their rent is considered property taxes. Percentages of foster care home fees are also taxes.

The credit, available to people of all ages, is based on an income compared to rent or property tax payments.

Another option for seniors is the home heating credit which can result in a refund up to $1,200.

To qualify, couples can earn up to $12,857. The maximum income for single people is $9,314.

Seniors interested in applying for the credit should save heating bills from Nov. 1 to the following October.

Seniors who want help with property or heating credit forms can call the treasurer's office at 942-7580 between Christmas and New Year's Day for appointments.

Seniors should bring their social security number, all statements of interest earned, pension benefits, social security, veterans' disability compensation, health insurance payments except Medicare, auto insurance showing amounts paid for bodily injuries, other household income, 1989 property tax bills and the total heating cost for the 1989 calendar year.

Government offices close for holidays

Local residents can expect closings at city and school offices during the holidays.

City hall will be closed Dec. 25, Dec. 26, Jan. 1 and Jan. 2.

City council meetings will be staged at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 27 and Jan. 3.

Meeting dates will return to normal Jan. 8.

The holidays will affect garbage pickup Dec. 25 and Jan. 1. Regular and leftover loads from the holidays will be collected the day after the holiday.

The Romulus Public Library will be open Dec. 26, 27 and 28. The following week it will be open Jan. 2, 3, 4 and 6.

At the Romulus Post Office, service will be interrupted Dec. 25 and Jan. 1.

Administrative offices for Romulus Community Schools are expected to close after a half day tomorrow and reopen Jan. 3.

The next board of education meeting is scheduled for Jan. 8.

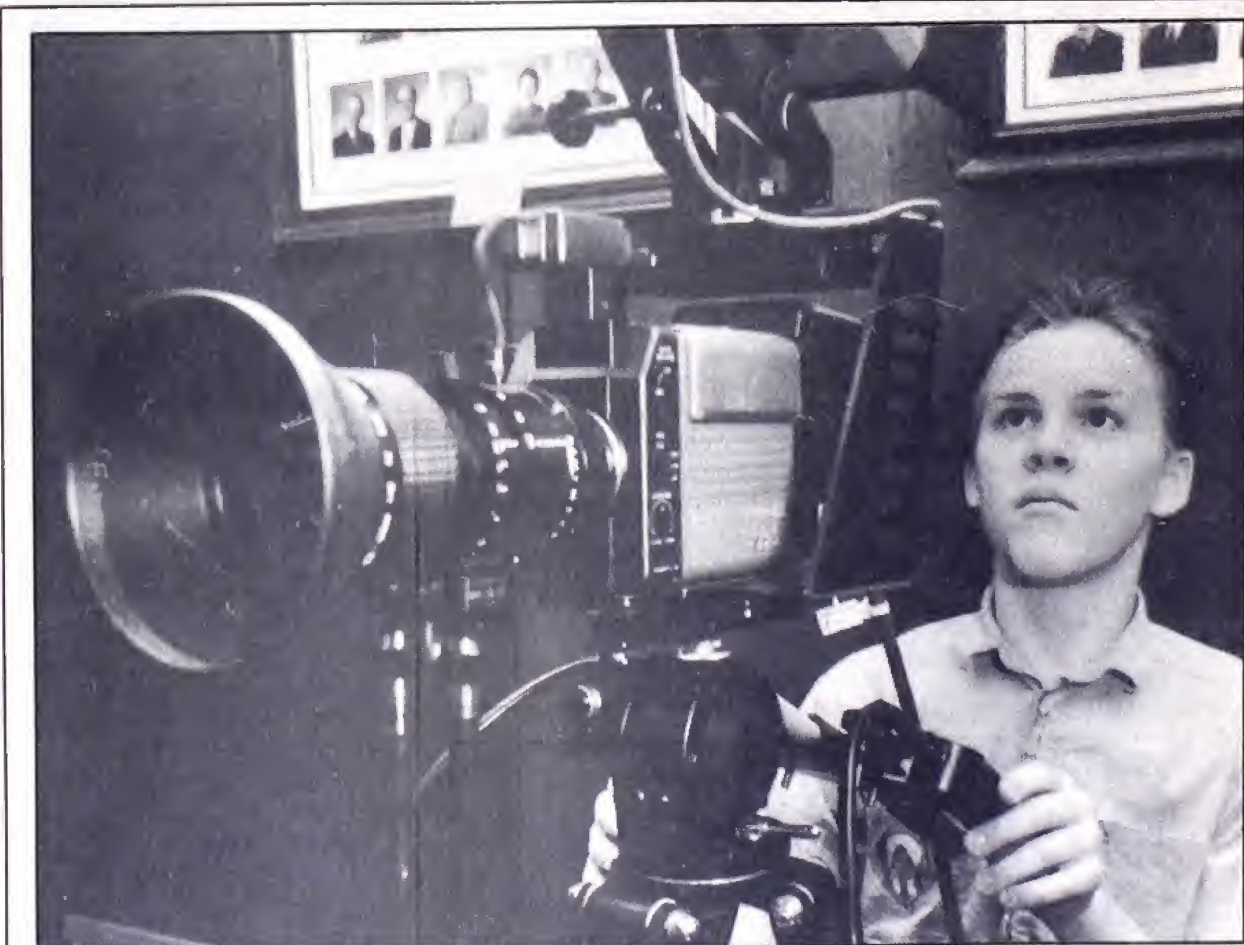

Public hearing scheduled

A proposed financing plan for the downtown area will be discussed at a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 27 at city hall.

City council recently was presented with a preliminary development plan for downtown that includes road improvements, new parking lots, landscaping, parks and an improved separation of business and residential areas. All of these measures are designed to increase development.

Members of the Downtown Development Authority hope to finance these projects with tax increment financing. With this method, officials would take all the taxes in that area and set it aside to pay for improvements.

During the public hearing, officials will propose using revenue from a proposed senior citizen complex at Wayne and Goddard roads. The development site would be considered part of the downtown area.

taped for the new channel now, and Warren said he hopes to hear from opposing groups soon.

"This will be for any organization," he said.

Warren said there is much more room for expansion.

"I'd like to see an eight-hour video program. I'd also like to see more individuals in-involved," he said. "Once we get the high school students involved and the teachers involved, that will open avenues for a school curriculum. Canton has a very nice student production. They come in and run the whole show. I would like to have something similar to that."

Now, he said several Romulus teachers are taking a cable class through Omnicon Cablevision. When they are finished, the teachers will tape school events and use the city control room for editing.

Also in the works is a series of programs about city departments, including building, the treasurer's office and community development. Duwayne Martin of the city recreation department may act as narrator.

To take full advantage of the channels, at least four more volunteers are needed, Warren said. They could help with the cameras, the control room, character generators, editing and titling programs.

Warren said, "It's just a matter of time and people."

COUNTY OF WAYNE

COMBINED NOTIFICATION FOR:

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

ON THE ENVIRONMENT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

County of Wayne, 600 Randolph Street, Detroit, Michigan 48226

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about January 8, 1990, the above-named County will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93.383) for the following project accordingly:

1. Project: Romulus Cooperative Services Senior Apartments - Infrastructure Improvements

Location: West side of Wayne Road between Goddard and Bibbons Avenues

Purpose: To provide infrastructure, relocation of electrical overhead lines, sidewalks, driveway approaches and/or landscaping as part of the construction and development of the Romulus Cooperative Services Senior Citizen Apartments. The City of Romulus has purchased a proposed site which has 450 feet of frontage on Wayne Road and on Gabriel Avenue. Vehicle access will be from two drives off Wayne Road. The 64 housing units for seniors will have HUD rent subsidies.

Cost: CDBG funds of $120,000 will be allocated from the Wayne County program. The County contracts in this proposal include: Contract '87-24-NS-031 for $23,500, and Contract '89- 24-NS-031 for $26,000.

2. It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the County of Wayne has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190). The reasons for such decision not to prepare such a Statement are as follows:

a) No significant impact was found as part of the environmental assessment.

b) Adverse environmental impacts, if any, have been minimized.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the above project has been made by the County of Wayne which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at the office of Community Development Director, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan 48174, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the County of Wayne to the office of the undersigned. Such written comments should be received at L-13 Wayne County Building, 600 Randolph, Detroit, Michigan 48226 on or before January 5, 1990. All such comments so received will be considered and the County will not request the release of Federal funds or take administrative action on the project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

3. Certification: The County of Wayne will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title I of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974. The County of Wayne and Executive Edward H. McNamara, in his capacity as County Executive, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making and action, and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that, upon its approval, the County of Wayne may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases:

a) That the certification was not, in fact, executed by the Chief Executive Officer of the applicant; or

b) That the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to HUD at: McNamara Building - 17th Floor, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Objections to the release of funds on the basis other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objections received after January 23, 1990 will be considered by HUD.

MEASURING VISION IN CATARACT PATIENTS

A recent report in the Journal of Cataract Surgery discussed the methods we use to measure vision in patients with cataracts. In most offices, the Snellen, or "E" chart is used to determine visual acuity. A person's visual acuity is based on the smallest size letters they can identify at twenty feet away.

This is fine for people with healthy eyes, but the article points out that people with cataracts often have much worse vision outdoors than what would be measured by the indoor "E" chart. This is due to glare and reduced contrast sensitivity suffered by patients with cataracts.

Glare occurs when light entering the eye reflects off the cataract. Some cataract patients are nearly blinded outdoors on a sunny day, even though they see fairly well indoors. Another glare problem is headlights from oncoming cars. Decreased contrast sensitivity means having difficulty distinguishing objects in different lighting situations. For example, some cataract patients read fairly well as long as they're reading black print on white paper, but have more trouble with colored ink or reading print on colored paper.

The doctor's "E" chart is indispensable, but it only tells part of the story. Visual disability from cataracts may be underestimated by this measurement only. Special devices can estimate outdoor visual acuity by measuring glare and contrast sensitivity.

BUSINESS NEWS DIGEST

Chiropractor offers warning

Shoveling snow may be hazardous to your health, according to Westland chiropractor Dr. James W. O'Dell. Improper lifting and throwing of snow can cause back injuries, O'Dell said.

To help prevent injury, O'Dell recommends doing warmup stretches before hitting the driveway and sidewalks. He also suggests starting out slowly, resting frequently and to avoid shoveling snow altogether if you have heart, lung or back trouble.

Most lower back injuries, O'Dell said, occur when bending forward and then turning strenuously to one side. Instead, he suggests making one long path on one side of the driveway. Then, in a forward motion, push or shovel the remaining snow the short distance of the driveway. This, O'Dell said, will prevent constant turning of the body.

To further prevent injuries, O'Dell recommends the following: dress warmly wearing a neck scarf and a long garment covering the lower back; always stand erect and bend from the knees rather than the waist; use a long-handled shovel for pushing snow; push rather than lift snow; alternate your shoveling stance; and don't shovel snow if you are in poor health.

Mall hours are listed

During this final weekend of holiday shopping, Westland Center will offer extended hours. The mall will be open through Dec. 23 from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. On Christmas Eve, the mall will close at 6 p.m. The mall will close Christmas day.

Regular mall hours will resume Dec. 26. On Dec. 31 and Jan. 1, the mall will be open from noon until 5 p.m.

Local workers are trained

Many local residents were trained recently to be ushers and concession workers at the new Showcase Cinema in Westland.

Brett Cox, Kim Hall, John Cleinelter and John Phillips participated in a special training seminar prior to the opening of the National Amusements Inc. theater.

Cards mark 'big' events

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Some people send greeting cards, but those who want to celebrate a special occasion in a "big way," place their messages on four-by-four or four-by-eight-foot signs.

Tiffany Coppock, of Van Buren Township, customizes the all-occasion signs, with freehand drawing, painting and lettering in her home-based Greetings on the Green. Her husband, John, assists in cutting out the wooden patterns.

"It's really rewarding when we hear how much people enjoyed them. We've had a lot of good feedback, and it makes the job a lot of fun," Coppock said.

The plywood "yard cards," created by Coppock, are used to mark all types of memorable occasions — births, birthdays, anniversaries, graduations and holidays.

"It doesn't end there," Coppock said. "I did a football-shaped sign for a player who made the all-league high school team, plus signs to welcome people to their new homes and Santa signs for Christmas."

Coppock, who is also employed part time as a paralegal, started her business after a friend told her about a similar venture in West Virginia.

"It sounded like a good idea, and I said, why not?" Coppock continued. "It started out with stork signs for new babies, and just took off from that. I do an 8-foot baby bottle in pink or blue and also a special sign for twins."

During the holiday season, her "Santa Claus is Coming" sign is a popular one. On her own lawn, she displays a heart, which says, "All hearts come home at Christmas," and a "Go Blue" snowman to indicate her college team preference.

Van Buren Township resident Tiffany Coppock (above) displays one of the signs which are the mainstay of her business Greetings on the Green. Coppock makes the signs which are then displayed in yards.

"When I started, I didn't realize how popular the signs would be, but now I'm hoping to get a few basic signs made ahead," Coppock said. "For example, I'll be making graduation caps in school colors, and some of that work can be done before the end of the school term. Tiffany Coppock charges a standard fee for the sign, delivery within 20 miles and removal of the sign within seven days. Additional information is available at the phone number she conveniently selected, 697-SIGN.

Dr. Israel is a general and vascular surgeon on staff at Oakwood Hospital, Dearborn. He also maintains a private practice in Lincoln Park.

PHLEBITIS IS TREATABLE

By Michael R. Israel, M.D., F.A.C.S.

Varicose veins are the most common type of venous insufficiency, as outlined in an earlier column. There are, however, more serious forms of venous insufficiency.

More serious conditions occur when the problem lies in the deep veins within the muscle.

Phlebitis is the most common of these, and is characterized by a blood clot formed in a vein. Phlebitis must be treated or it could result in serious problems, even death.

Symptoms of this condition include pain, massive swelling, and heaviness in the legs.

Phlebitis can occur in the same people who develop varicose veins: those who are more than 40 years of age, are obese, have occupations which require standing for long periods of time, have a family history of this condition, and women who have had multiple pregnancies. Also at risk are those persons who have pre-existing conditions such as cancer or heart disease, or post-operative patients who have had abdominal, pelvic, or gynecological surgery.

Patients suffering from phlebitis are hospitalized anywhere from one to two weeks, placed on blood thinners such as heparin, and advised to wear support stockings. If stockings are not worn, ulceration of the leg may occur.

Diagnosing incompetency of the saphenous system and deep venous system can be done non-invasively by an instrument called the Doppler Ultrasound, which creates a sound from the flow of blood. The physician can hear the sound and then detect whether the vein is blocked or narrowed. The entire diagnostic procedure takes approximately 15 minutes.

If you are suffering from any of the symptoms discussed, visit your vascular surgeon. He or she will suggest an appropriate treatment plan for you.

Hospitals under new management

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Three area hospitals, including Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, are under new management.

United Care Inc. which has previously operated Annapolis, Heritage Hospital in Taylor and Seaway Hospital in Trenton, announced recently that all three will be under Oakwood United Hospitals, a subsidiary of Oakwood Health Services Corporation.

The move from United Care to Oakwood has been under way for three months.

Gerald D. Fitzgerald, president of Oakwood Health Services, said the move will create a strong health care network for the area.

"The addition of Heritage, Annapolis and Seaway to the Oakwood system, plus our continued affiliation with United Care, creates a network of health services that will benefit more than one million residents of Downriver and western Wayne County with technologically advanced, accessible and high-quality services close to home," Fitzgerald said.

The lease agreement between Oakwood and United Care runs for 21 years. Oakwood has purchased all equipment and inventories for the three hospitals.

Maureen Camps, a public relations official for United Care, said the agreement should benefit patients of Annapolis and the other hospitals affected.

"The expectation is that this new group, with the three hospitals, will be able to start new programs and expand services," Camps said.

While she could not name any specific new programs planned, Camps said 24-hour emergency rooms at the three hospitals will remain in service without interruption.

"That's a big item on people's minds," Camps said.

United Care will continue to operate Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti, Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park and Balmoral Skilled Nursing Center in Trenton.

Oakwood and United Care continue to have what is described as an affiliation agreement, and the two corporations intend to seek joint ventures in the future.

While more programs may be coming, Camps said hospital rates will probably not be affected by the change of management.

"Rates are always something that we continually keep looking at," she said. "Whoever owns it, they'd always keep looking at rates."

Local environmentalist has wish for new year

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

If environmentalist Edward Delhagen could have a wish for the new year, it would be that each individual would change an aspect of his or her lifestyle to benefit the environment.

Delhagen, who serves as environmental analyst for Van Buren Township, has organized a monthly recycling collection for residents and also serves as advisor and coordinator for citizens, environmental groups.

"I would like to see each person make a commitment to change one aspect of his or her life to improve the environment - plant a tree, begin to recycle, buy recycled products or take any other first step to help the environment," Delhagen said. "Ideally, I would like to see people make major changes in the way they live in order to preserve natural resources and protect the environment, but I know those changes will take time."

Once a commitment is made in one area of life, Delhagen believes, individuals may become more sensitive to environmental concerns and, consequently, make more positive changes in their lifestyles.

Residents of Van Buren Township are encouraged to save newspaper, tin, aluminum and glass for recycling, and also to save their used oil for recycling.

"For example, we have deskside waste paper recycling in the township offices, and we use paper cups instead of styrofoam cups," Delhagen said. "Adopting one of these ideas could be a first step for someone who wants to protect the environment."

Delhagen supplied the following suggestions for adoption in homes:

- Recycle newspapers, cans, glass bottles, aluminum, motor oil and scrap metal;
 - Try to use phosphate-free laundry and dish soaps, and use cold water whenever possible;
 - Re-use paper bags to line trash cans instead of plastic liners, and also re-use bread bags and butter containers, etc. and
 - Conserve energy by turning off lights and appliances when you leave a room, installing a water-saving shower head and insulating your water heater.
- Individuals also can pull weeds instead of using herbicides, compost leaves and grass clippings and put up bird feeders and birdhouses, the environmental analyst said.
- Shoppers, Delhagen said, could avoid buying products in plastic or styrofoam containers or products that are so-called disposables. The environmentalist also suggested that consumers buy paper products - which break down better in the environment - instead of plastic and to ask questions about products or wrappings that they believe may add to a waste of resources or pose an environmental danger.

Motorists can take steps to protect the environment by keeping their cars tuned up, carpooling, using public transportation and buying fuel-efficient vehicles, the environmentalist said.

Delhagen said there are many areas "to take the first step" toward preserving the environment by adopting new habits in the home, business and backyard or when driving, shopping or vacationing. Local conservation or environmental groups can aid individuals in their quest to make appropriate lifestyle changes to preserve natural resources, he said.

School closing protested

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Parents are trying to stop a local school for autistic children from closing, but indications are that time may be running out.

Burger Development Center in Garden City may close in 1990 because of roofing and asbestos problems.

The Garden City school district has reached an agreement with the Wayne County Intermediate School District to have WCISD take over the program, which serves 218 autistic students.

Autism is a severe neurological disorder which affects how a person sees, hears and behaves.

WCISD officials are considering moving the program to another location, which could be Cherry Hill High School in Inkster, because costs of renovating the Garden City school may be prohibitive.

More than 100 parents and teachers marched in front of the school Dec. 13, asking WCISD to consider renovating Burger.

Kathryn Mathey, manager of special education field services for WCISD, said the intermediate board of education has voted to have an architect consider renovating Burger, a job which is estimated by local officials to cost between $500,000 and $750,000.

"In a way, I'm hesitant to say that, because I don't want to give the parents false hope," Mathey said.

If the program moves to Inkster or another location, current teachers in the program will be offered their positions with their seniority, Mathey said.

But the situation would not be exactly the same if the move is made, she said.

"They would keep their seniority intact," she said. "However, they would move to that same seniority position on our salary scale."

Cheryl Szittia, protest leader, said, "The teachers are the program. Not all of them are going to lose seniority to move somewhere else."

Some teachers could face a pay cut, and teachers have already indicated to her they will not make the move, Mathey said.

According to Szittia, moving the program to Cherry Hill High School would be a problem because it could accommodate only half the students now attending Burger.

Michael Wilmont, superintendent of the Garden City schools, said the district is somewhat in the middle of the debate.

"We're really committed as a district to these parents and these kids," Wilmont said. "But we're also committed to the intermediate school district to a smooth transition."

Opinion

Test results should be used constructively

In recent weeks, school district officials have released the results of the Michigan Education Assessment Program test, taken by students in the fall.

The MEAP tests were given to students in the fourth, fifth, seventh, eighth, 10th and 11th grades to determine their strengths and weaknesses in reading, math and science.

Predictably, there has been the tendency to compare the results of one district to another, of one school to another, of one child to another.

That is unfortunate. The results do not tell us who won the education game. Education is not a horse race to the finish line.

Instead, the results show where the student, teacher and school district needs to improve. The results are indicators of what is good and what is bad.

By using the results with caution, school officials are able to discern what they need to do.

The results can be a road map to improving curriculum and identifying a student with a particular problem.

What the test results should not do is prompt school officials into arbitrarily changing curriculum to cover items specifically addressed on the tests.

Many school officials have said they will change curriculum to reflect recent changes in what is in the MEAP tests. That is a particularly disturbing trend.

Curriculum should be altered only to reflect a changing society, not a changing state test. Also, the grade level at which certain subjects are taught should not be changed in order for students to do well on the MEAP test.

Those same school officials said they will change their curriculum so students do better on the science portion of the test. That is bad education.

Worse, it is unethical.

Coaching students for the tests or giving unnecessary emphasis on a subject just because the information will be on the MEAP test defeats the purpose of the program.

It is not who wins or loses. It is how well the game is played.

Coaching students or giving them lessons designed to better their scores does not help them or society.

We all suffer when the results are inflated, and do not reflect what really is happening in the classroom.

It is important that school officials keep their perspective on the MEAP results and use those results judiciously when decisions on curriculum are made.

Drive safely

Bright twinkling lights are part of the holiday landscape, gaily decorating homes throughout the area.

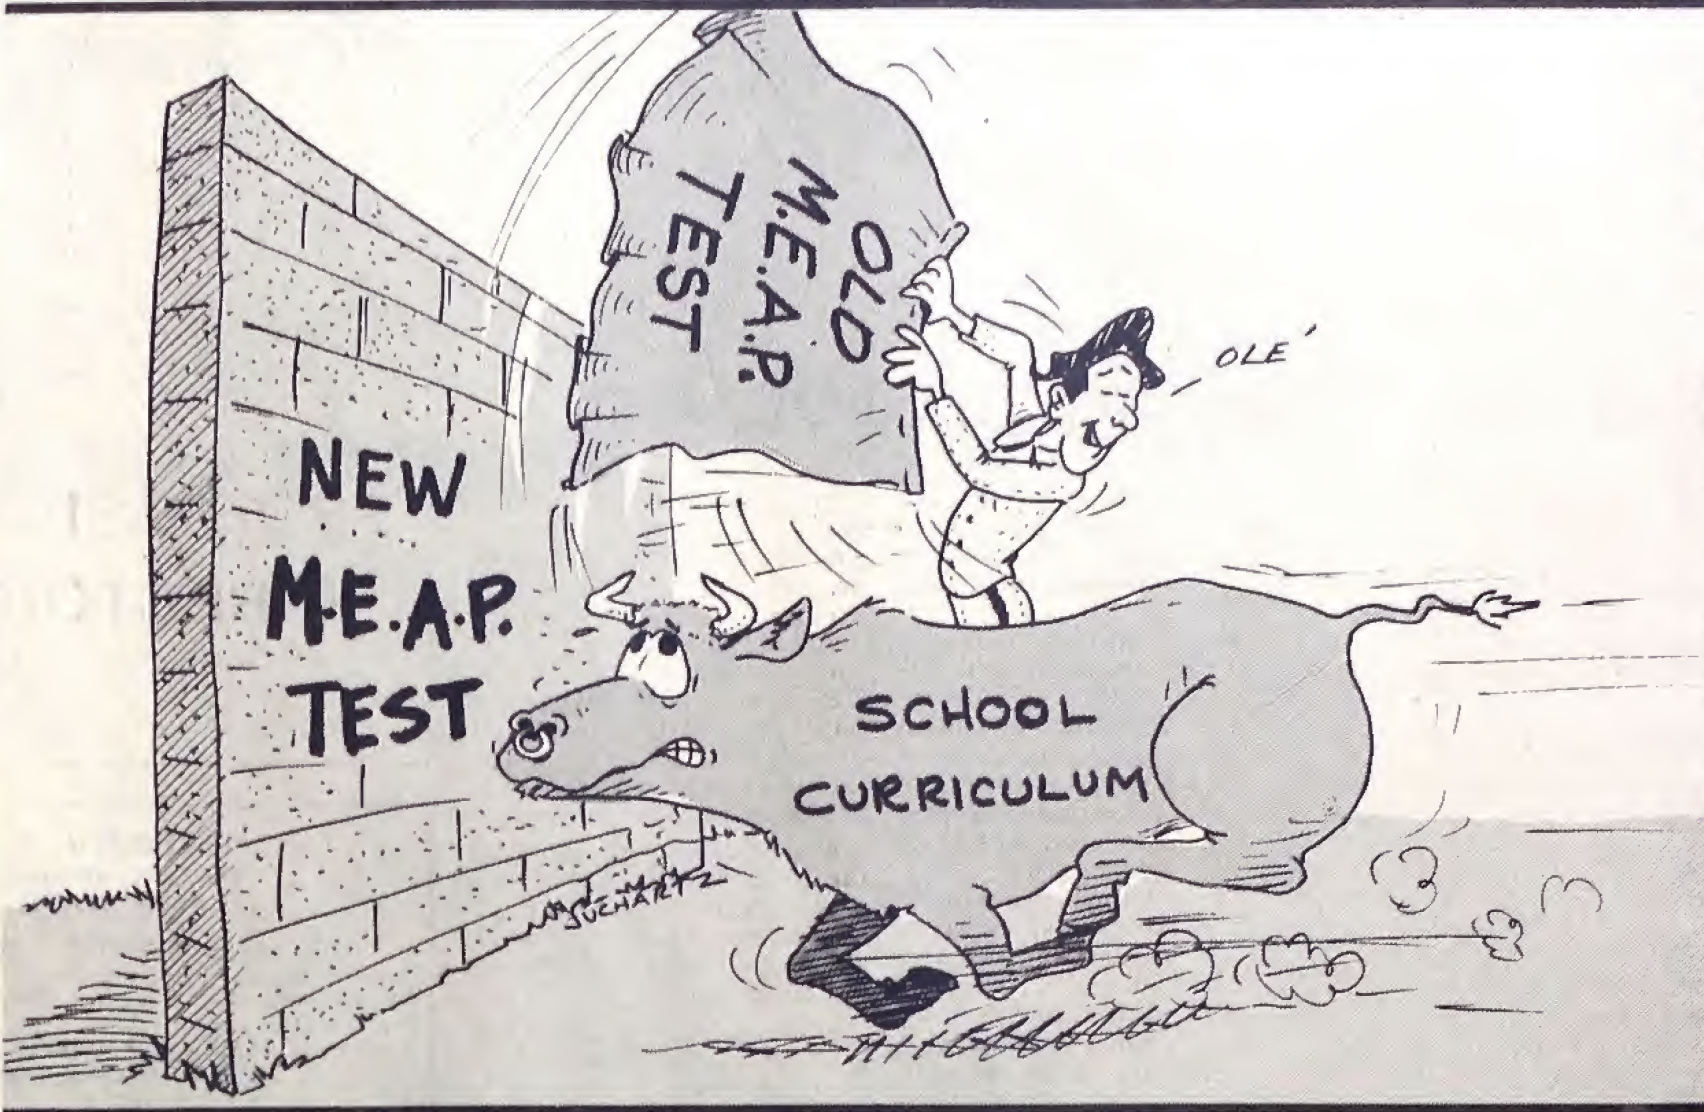

Sadly though, flashing lights from police cruisers and ambulances also will shine in the night this holiday season.

Rescue personnel can tell you this is the worst time of the year in terms of accidents caused by individuals under the influence of alcohol.

Mothers Against Drunk Driving and Students Against Driving Drunk have been asking people to be especially careful this time of the year.

The groups have been promoting a public-education campaign to "Tie One On" - with a red ribbon, not a whiskey sour. Thousands of residents in the area have tied red ribbons to their car door handles and antennae showing their support of driving safely and sober this holiday season.

The message from MADD and SADD is simple: If you drink, don't drive, and may the only colored lights you see this year be on your Christmas tree.

Dismissal is a shame

What a shame! We finally get an individual who cares about our kids and parks within the city of Romulus, and because she doesn't get politically involved, she is replaced.

I have had a couple occasions to talk to Ms. (Debbie) Dick about my son and his problems, and she has always handled each situation with compassion and professionally, and also personally supervised the activities my son has taken part in, has helped him tremendously with self-confidence, and also in school with grades and attitude. Ms. Dick made a point to meet with myself, my son, and the ader to correct any problems.

This past summer I again had a situation occur at the local summer program, in which my son and I would have to work out the problems with the leader.

Ms. Dick has brought to this community what recreation is all about.

It is too bad that the city has to tighten its belt by replacing someone who cares, and yet when talking to city employees, the city of Romulus is spending a fortune on attorney fees for arbitration and grievance cases. I know this letter will accomplish nothing, but at least I am voicing my support and thanks to Ms. Dick. I encourage everyone who feels the way I do to voice their opinions also.

Tracey Jones
Romulus

Director is supported

I am writing this letter in response to a front-page article of your paper two weeks ago in reference to the dismissal of employees from the city of Romulus. Debbie Dick, recreation director, in particular.

Madam Mayor McNally, I was shocked, as were many concerned Romulus residents, over your recent decision not to reappoint Mrs. Dick as recreation director. Your reason given of wanting to restructure the recreation department does not clearly justify the dismissing of this valued employee.

Since leaving her position of recreation supervisor of Wayne to assume her duties here at Romulus, for whom you actively pursued, Debbie has started, with the cooperation of grade-school principals, and maintained many after-school programs such as soccer, floor hockey, basketball, etc. Her Daddy-Daughter Date Nite idea has annually grown to such overwhelming response that the Progressive Hall had to be rented to accommodate everyone. Other successful programs Mrs. Dick has initiated in the short five years she has dedicatedly served you and her community are the Youth Recreational Bowling Leagues, Summer Co-ed Softball Leagues, beginning and advanced gymnastics, jazz dance classes and on and on, and the only reason you can give the public through the paper is that you want to restructure the recreation department.

Unbeknownst to you and many of the general public is the hours Debbie has spent away from her family officiating many of the after-school programs when on short notice, the scheduled official did not show up and she didn't want the event to be cancelled.

Whatever your reason for this decision, whether it be personal or political, you, Mrs. McNally have made the wrong one.

I pray that your new appointee, whoever he or she may be, will continue these fine programs and the city, as a whole, will not lose.

If this writer sounds a little personal by his opinions, he is, because I am the proud husband of Mrs. Debbie Dick.

Award not deserved

I write to protest your papers' blatant disregard to its' public, in reference to it being awarded for its' "Excellence in Journalism."

Editorialism, I feel, is a different animal altogether, and so deserves no such award. We all hold opinions vicarious or otherwise. Your paper has been opinionated and unfair in relating the policies of our mayor-elect during that race for office. Articles (sic) continually replaced the expected facts and figures of key issues with editorialized, personal reviews of the challenger/candidate, and his limited experience. We all saw the current mayor as the lesser of two evils four years ago, and he is proof today that pseudoexperience and whitewashing of issues is no qualification, and indeed detrimental to a growing city and the environment it is responsible for.

Your paper has also embellished misinforming accounts of area developments as bona-fide improvements for the benefit of residents. I won't waste much time pointing out the lack of improvements of the previous three years, if they prove to be beneficial at all. We cannot dictate the approach (or location) of your articles on either candidate, but please realize the risks involved with overt identification with the views of one! Choice of endorsement being your legal right to a full-page ad, but the lines between advertisement (sic) and endorsement are unclear to me. Political savvy and doubletalk are for ads; Endorsements are personal. Revenue does not buy fortitude, however. Please make clear to readers that there is a difference in endorsing a candidate because of his paper-relations, and public-relations.

Thankfully, the city and its' voters have stood up and spoken truthfully on the issue of leadership. The publisher, Susan Willett, and I disagree, understandably on many points. I will not split hairs over a battle won by both sides except to say I hope we will not see the same bitterness cast down upon Thomas that Mr. Pickering had to endure, by both council AND media. Robert Thomas has both the desire and integrity we now desperately (sic) need. Please represent him in fairness and optimism - But most of all, give him a chance to right the many wrongs we have suffered, and begin again building the Westland other cities will look to as a model of public/administration cooperation, ecological balance, and forthought (sic) progress.

Again, please be objective of this criticism, it is intended as constructive. This letter is not an ethical lesson; Journalists go to college for that. You hire reporters to practice it. Keep your award by sharing among yourselves the responsibility of a public service as important as the Eagle, of clearcut, factual reporting. If this is not easily done, please accept this letter as my application, and assign me political editorialist. Truth is always more interesting than fiction, especially in Westland.

ROMULUS HOLIDAY TOURNAMENT
11121 WAY ROAD
ROMULUS, MICH. 48174

Romulus, the defending South Central Conference wrestling champs, coasted to an easy 55-15 victory over Ypsilanti in its first defense of the SCC conference this year. Coach Norm Butler's Eagles dominated the Braves and swept 10 of the 13 weight classes, including the 135-pound bout (at right) where Bruce Boyd earned a 6-1 decision over James Caudill; in the 189-pound duel (below), Romulus' Jason Schmidt disposed of Nikita Oliver in 3:21 for a six-point victory. The Eagles, by finishing second to defending Class A state champ, Temperance Bedford, have established themselves as one of the top teams in the area, if not the state, this year. Runner-up Eagles 2nd only to state champ

Romulus wrestlers Saturday proved on the mats that they deserve to be recognized as one of the top Class A teams in the state. With 10 state-ranked teams, including defending Class A state champ, Temperance Bedford, competing at the prestigious Lansing Eastern Invitational, Coach Norm Butler and his Eagles of Romulus finished second. The only team looking down at them from the final standings at the tournament was Bedford. The state champs garnered 197.5 points to capture the first-place trophy, while Romulus came away with the second-place award by virtue of its 122.5 points. "We wrestled well," said the sophomore Romulus coach, who was quick to note that his grapplers "did not wrestle to their capabilities." "However, when you consider that 10 state-ranked teams were in this tournament, I must say that I am pleased at our overall finish." Romulus also was handcuffed in that the Eagles voided three weight classes. Asked why he didn't field competitors in the weights, Butler replied: "I just don't feel that our kids (in those weight classes) are ready for the caliber of competition this tournament had to offer. "It could have had a detrimental psychological affect on them." Trailing the winner and runner-up at the 20-team invitational also were: Flint Kearsley (120.5), Eaton Rapids (113), Holt (96), Lansing Sexton (91), Bay City Western (85.5), Ply-

Belleville strikes silver at Ypsi mat invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

While Belleville High head wrestling coach Gerald Malecek was busy putting together an "A" and "B" lineup for the Tiger Junior Varsity Tournament, his assistant coaches, John Ritchey and Mike Beckley, gathered up the varsity and traveled to nearby Ypsilanti. At Ypsi, the Tigers struck silver as they finished second to Saline at the eight-team invitational. "I usually stick around and help with the junior varsity," Malecek said in explaining his absence at Ypsi. "The kids did a good job over there. It was a close meet." Saline came away with the first-place trophy as the invitational champ amassed 197 points. Belleville was second with 174.5, followed by Northville (163.5), Flint Northern (109.5), Ypsilanti (105.5), Dearborn Edsel Ford (57), Novi (38) and Willow Run (9). Belleville also surfaced with a pair of gold-medalists: Steven Davis, a 119-pounder, and Mike Braswell, at 171, emerged in first place. Davis clashed with Saline's Stephan Gray in the finals and dumped his opponent in 3:11, while Braswell had his hands full with another Saline wrestler, Dan Wooley. Braswell was awarded the victory by virtue of a 10-3 decision. Belleville had five second-place medalists. Heavyweight Jim Howe lost by a technical fall to Saline's Dave Olson, 17-4, handing the gold medal over to his opponent. The Tigers also found silver with John Ratcliff, who lost the gold to his 125-pound rival from Northville, Brandon Mardirossian, who won on a 3:15 fall. Belleville's Chris Williams emerged from the mats on the short end of a 5-3 decision with Saline's Lance Beebe, while teammate Jeff Komaroni was pinned by Flint Northern's Eric McGee in 3:31.

Holiday tourney Romulus cagers favored to win

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

You have to wonder if the Romulus Holiday Basketball Tournament trophy is on first-year Coach Chris Molloy's Christmas gift list. Off of the early returns, the Eagles are favored to win their own tournament. With the exception of Taylor, the two other opponents - Lincoln Park and New Boston Huron - look all but impressive. After four starts, they have failed to break into the winning column thus far. In spite of the records, Molloy believes that "it should be an interesting tournament." "When you have a holiday like Christmas sandwiched in between the tournament, you don't really know what will happen after the kids push themselves away from the dinner table. "We're going to keep our players in shape, but it's a difficult thing to do, to tell the kids to get plenty of rest and eat the right foods at this of the year. It's almost impossible to do." The two-day tournament at Romulus High will be kicked off at 5 p.m. on Tuesday (Dec. 26) when Lincoln Park clashes with New Boston Huron. The second game, at 7 p.m. will feature the host against Taylor. The championship will be decided at 7 p.m. on Wednesday. The consolation game will be played at 5 p.m. In the meantime, the Eagles will tune up for the tournament with their second South Central Conference game of the season. They will travel to Ypsilanti to take on the undefeated Braves. "They've beaten some very respectable teams this year, including Highland Park, Adrian and Inkster," Molloy noted. "And beating Ypsi over there is tough. I am looking for a close game."

"We had our opportunities against them (Pioneer), and just didn't cash in on them."

— Chris Molloy
Romulus cage coach

Romulus let Ann Arbor Pioneer slip from its hands last week as Molloy's Eagles fell 78-71 in their SCC debut. On the strength of Larry Perkins' eight first-period points, Romulus jumped ahead 18-14 after the initial eight minutes. However, Pioneer outscored their rivals 26-15 in the second period and took command 40-33 at the half. Pioneer successfully protected a five-point (58-53) advantage it held going into the last period. "We just didn't play well in the second period," Molloy said. "We had numerous opportunities but didn't capitalize upon them." The Eagles could have reversed the tide at the free-throw line where they were "horrendous". They made five of 15 offerings. Pioneer's Bill Higgins, a 6-6 center, led the onslaught against the Eagles as he pumped in 27 points - 12 of those coming in that turnaround second quarter. Perkins finished the evening with a team high 22 points. Two others - Abu Hamilton and Virgil Davis - also were in double figures for the losers. Hamilton tossed in 18 and Davis added 13. Earlier in the week, Romulus rolled to their second straight victory at the expense of Marine City, 72-61.

Willow Run hands 'old coach' loss

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

"Home sweet, Home?" Not for former Willow Run basketball Coach Ron Tarrant, who returned to the Flyers' hangars last week with his newly-inherited Robichaud Bulldogs. The Flyers wasted little time making Tarrant feel uncomfortable as they spoiled his homecoming. Willow Run won the Suburban Athletic Conference opener for both teams, 64-56. "It was a game of turnovers," Tarrant said. "I counted 20 of them before the half, then stopped counting. It wasn't a pretty picture." The Bulldogs have failed to give their new coach a victory in their first three outings. The Dearborn Heights cagers also lost a low-scoring, slowed-up duel to state-ranked Flint Beecher, 46-36, last Tuesday. "We've a lot of catching up to do," Tarrant said. "Our shot selection is very poor at this time. And the turnovers are killing us."

Vikings open up with win

By TOM MOORADIAN

Coach George Thompson Jr. and the Vikings of Inkster took their frustrations out on Oak Park. After dropping their first two nonleague games of the season, Thompson's minions rode a 26-10 first-period outburst to a 68-58 basketball victory over Oak Park in the Suburban Athletic Conference opener for both teams. "It was what this team needed," said Thompson, whose club lost their opener 83-70 to Ypsilanti, then fell in a squeaker to state-ranked Saginaw Buena Vista, 52-38. The Vikings were scheduled to meet another tough cage opponent, Detroit East Catholic, Tuesday night. "I told my kids that the schedule was going to be tough," Thompson continued. "I think

Romulus spikers 2nd at tourney

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus took pre-tournament favorite Garden City to the wire before losing a pair of 15-13 games and the title in the finals of the Taylor Invitational Girls' Volleyball Tournament.

Coach Gail Coleman's team managed to rally and tie the area power at 13-all in both of the finals, but couldn't come up with the right combination to break the deadlock in their favor.

"Our girls refused to quit," Coleman commented. "We tied them at 13-13 in both, but just couldn't put them away."

To reach the finals, Romulus had to erase Southgate Anderson (15-12, 15-13), Southgate Aquinas (15-12, 15-13) from their paths. They also split with Riverview and Taylor, while beating Wyandotte in the semifinal round in three sets. The Eagles dropped the opener, 17-15, then came back to sweep the second (15-3) and the finale (15-4) to advance to the championship round.

Michele Scarrow was one of the key figures in Romulus' drive for the title. In game one of the finals, she came up with seven points to tie the game at 13-13, and in the second game, Scarrow scored eight points.

Coleman credited her team's excellent defense and the back-line play of Tammy Trubilowicz, Chris Stratton, and Scarrow for the team's success.

The Eagles will host a holiday tournament of their own on Dec. 29. Ten teams, including the defending champ, Trenton, and the host will compete in the invitational.

Other teams that have accepted the invitation are Wyandotte Mt. Carmel, Riverview, Gabriel Richard, Carlson, Flint Central, Belleville, Lincoln Park, Oakland Catholic, and Jackson High.

Tickets are $3.

Tied at 55-all with 3:20 remaining in the game, Romulus received some clutch baskets from Davis, who finished with 23 points, to put their non-conference rival away.

Davis led a balanced scoring attack which included three others who reached double figures: Torrey Mills had 15; Perkins counted 13 while Hamilton finished with 10.

Derek Reed became the Tigers' silver medalist when he lost a close 3-2 decision in overtime to Northville's Kevin Khashan.

Davis, not only picked up a gold, but the talented 119-pounder also was awarded the Most Falls in least amount of time trophy. The sophomore wrestler has won all nine of his matches this year, and, a year ago as a freshmen, compiled 31 victories.

"He's a hard-working young athlete who is blessed with natural ability," Malecek noted of his up-and-coming grappler.

Earlier in the week, the Tigers launched the Wolverine 'A' Conference phase of the season with an impressive 48-15 victory over Lincoln Park. Belleville also dominated Suburban Athletic Conference representative, Highland Park, 68-6.

Tigers take command of league

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

While co-champ Wayne Memorial enjoyed a night off because of a water shortage in Monroe, Belleville soared to the top of the Wolverine 'A' Conference basketball standings this week with a cliffhanging 58-55 victory over Dearborn Fordson.

The water problem in Monroe led to the cancellation of the scheduled Wayne Memorial-Monroe basketball game. Wayne, Monroe and Belleville are the conference's defending tri-champs.

"They (Wayne) came over to watch us play Fordson," said Belleville coach Michael Garland. "They obviously wanted to see what we have this year."

Fordson was working on an upset when the Tigers finally settled down and pulled out the narrow victory. The game was tied at 39-all with 30 seconds remaining in the third quarter and with the Tigers "playing helter skelter" when Ron Hunter rallied his team with a couple of key baskets.

"We weren't playing well at all," Garland said. "If it had not been for our free-throw shooting and for Hunter (Ron), Fordson would have beaten us. In fact, we were lucky to win this one."

The Tigers outscored the Tractors 19-7 in the last period, with Hunter contributing nine of his 16 in the stretch. The Tigers also cashed in on 14 of 26 at the foul line.

Fordson held leads of 12-11 and 29-24 after the first two periods, and increased their advantage to 48-39 for three periods before the Tigers decided it was time to get serious.

Hunter's clutch baskets, plus six points from Roeder in the final period, shattered Ford-son's hopes for an upset.

Earlier in the week, Belleville managed to hold off an always respectable Livonia Stevenson quintet, 61-59. Dave Roeder again came through with four-for-four at the free throw line in the last quarter to give his team a boost. He finished with 11, while Derek Boles came away with individual scoring honors (18). Hunter chipped in 13.

"It was nip-and-tuck all the way," Garland commented. "I felt it was one of the best defensive games that I had seen in quite some time."

Belleville will be busy during the holidays. The Tigers have accepted an invitation to compete in the Willow Run Holiday Tournament, and they'll meet Willow Run at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 27.

The opening game at 6 p.m. will pit the number one Class A state-ranked Prospectors of Detroit Southwestern against Ann Arbor Huron.

The championship will be decided at 8 p.m. on Dec. 28. A consolation game between the two first-round losers is slated for 6 p.m.

Huron suffers double setback

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

You can bet that New Boston Huron cage Coach Larry Swick will be stressing offense this week.

Swick's Chiefs haven't been able to generate the points to put them in the winning column this season. They fell 81-53 to Riverview and 78-49 to Flat Rock last week, leaving them winless in three Huron Conference outings.

"We're a young team making young mistakes," pointed out Swick, whose club isn't scheduled to play again until Dec. 26 when the Chiefs compete in the Romulus Invitational. "I am still convinced that we have the makings of a good team.

But, I believe I am trying to bring them along too fast."

For its entire output in the first half against Riverview, Huron had only 16 points to show for it. The Pirates capitalized and jumped from a 17-6 lead to an insurmountable 43-16 advantage, then went on to outscore their rivals 29-14 in the third quarter.

One of the bright spots for the Chiefs was the performance of Kevin Djonch, who came off the bench and scored 23 second-half points.

"Everything went wrong for us," Swick said. "We fell behind early and never recovered."

However, the Chiefs managed to come back from a 19-8 first period against Flat Rock, kept it close (39-23) at the half before surrendering the 78-49 decision. Matt Holtan's 12 points topped Huron's scorers.

Huron will play Lincoln Park in the first round of the Romulus tournament at 5 p.m. on Tuesday; in the second game, at 7 p.m. Romulus plays Taylor. The championship will

Belleville dunks Lincoln Park

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It "was a fun meet" for Coach Greg Cooper and the Tigers of Belleville, who leaped into the Wolverine 'A' Conference waters last Thursday and came out a winner 132-45 at the expense of Lincoln Park.

"This is the kind of meet we like to call 'a fun meet' because we can give all the kids an opportunity to swim," said Cooper, a former Belleville High All-Area swimmer. "We have a handful of frontrunners, but in a meet like this we can find out a lot about our second and third kids."

Lincoln Park found out a lot - they discovered that they were no match for the 1989 Tigers, who jumped out in front with a victory in the 200-medley relay and never looked back. In the opening event, Cooper chose Trevor Yeary, Eric Stattler, Bryan Bogardus and Mike Bird, who posted a 1:51.13 in winning the event.

Then, Ed Trudo turned in a 2:09 to win the 200-yard freestyle, while Bogardus came back in the 50-yard freestyle and finished first in 23.87.

Belleville dominated the diving with Corey Frost, who carded 231.40 points.

Yeary claimed the 100-yard butterfly (59.75) and Bird topped the field in the 500-yard freestyle (5:20.38) for two more Tiger victories. Cooper swam Ken Tolliver in the 100-backstroke and Malcolm Lynch, in the 100-yard breaststroke, and the two Belleville swimmers won in 1:11.99 and 1:17.67, respectively.

Belleville wrapped up its first conference win with a victory in the 400-yard freestyle relay as Trudo, Bogardus, Yeary and Bird teamed up for a 3:34.23.

After swimming Ypsilanti and Northville in a triangular meet on Tuesday, Belleville went after its second conference win in as many starts. They had Dearborn Fordson to contend with at 7 p.m.

it's being to sink in. It isn't going to get any easier."

It did look easy, at first, against Oak Park. The Vikings exploded to a 26-10 first period lead as Arthur Asberry, a 6-2 senior, led a balanced assault. But, Inkster apparently figured the game was over and shelved their defense as the Red Skins rode back and outscored their SAC rivals 19-11 in the second period and 16-6 in the third. When the fourth period began, the Vikings were looking at a 45-43 deficit.

Asberry again took over, this time from long range. He sparked a 24-13 Viking advantage that lifted Inkster to the victory. The Inkster sharpshooter wound up with a game-high 23 points, while teammate Claude McReynolds finished with 15, eight of those in the last quarter. Tyron Orr also was in double figures for the winners. He had 11.

Inkster was inept at the free throw line. They canned a mere seven of their 24 offerings and Thompson vowed that that stat has to improve "if we are to continue to contend."

Local car dealer steps beyond sales for holidays

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Jack Demmer Ford and the Wayne Lions Club are co-sponsoring a food and essential item drive.

The drive, which began Dec. 6, will run through Dec. 22.

Demmer sales manager Steve Visotsky and Lions Club president John Dawson will drive a new Ford Ranger pickup filled with goods from the drive to the Penickton Center for Blind Children in Taylor.

"I would just love to have the pickup filled to the brim this year," Visotsky said. "Last year, we completely filled the center's storage shed behind the school."

The center is both a school and home for multiple-handicapped children, Dawson said. It is funded by private donations.

"Unfortunately, about 95 percent of the people in the area are unaware of the school," Dawson said.

The Lions Club and Jack Demmer Ford are working to rectify the anonymity problem.

Letters were included in Demmer employee pay envelopes explaining the food drive and asking for donations.

Dawson, vice-president of First of America Bank, asked his co-workers for help.

The response has been generous, and Visotsky and Dawson said they are hoping contributions this year will surpass those from last year.

"We hope we can fill the truck twice if it's possible," Dawson said.

"It takes more than just the employees' donations. We hope everyone in the community will be willing to make a contribution."

John Agge

The center wrote a wish list of items most needed by the students, including washcloths, toothbrushes, petroleum jelly, garbage bags and non-perishable food items.

Soon after the food drive began, the Ranger pickup truck in the middle of the Demmer showroom began to fill.

"Rarely do we get the opportunity to help others not as fortunate as ourselves," Visotsky said. "Any donation (the public) could make would be greatly appreciated and will enable us all to exercise the true meaning of Christmas."

Anyone interested in making a donation can bring it to Jack Demmer Ford during regular business hours until Dec. 22.

If you miss the deadline but would still like to make a donation, contact Steve Visotsky at 721-2600.

Winter driving tips reviewed

Each year at the onslaught of winter, every automotive publication preaches the same thing - "Time to get the old roadster ready for winter." The publication then informs folks to basically do one thing - take it to a mechanic and say "Here, you get it ready for winter."

Well, here are a few tips that car owners can and should make use of to be better prepared for the misery that is Michigan winter driving:

Tim Bowman (left) and Nick Rudelic of Jack Demmer Ford in Wayne pose with food items collected for the needy. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

- Make certain your horn works. This will assist in expressing how you feel about those who insist upon driving 25 mph on Michigan Avenue in the lightest of snow flurries.

- Buy an ice scraper. Do not use that Pepsi bottle that has been rolling around your back seat as a scraper. Unless, of course, you enjoy that beveled glass windshield look.

- Have an emergency kit tucked away should you happen to become impossibly stuck. The kit should include $25 to be readily handed over to the young man with the truck that could have been in the Silverdome Monster Truck Series who says, "Why sure I can get you outta here."

- Set your alarm clock three hours early. This will give you time to get up, race outside in entirely too little clothing, and start your car. Set the defroster on full blast then race back into the house. Have a cup of coffee. Repeat the entire process when your car stalls. Give up when you're late for work and you curse yourself for not following tip number two.

Sue Willett

Kevin Stites is my new best friend. Too bad he doesn't know it.

Stites is the super talent presently singing one of the lead roles in Les Miserables at the Fisher Theatre. He and assistant music director John Ruess appeared at the combined Wayne-Westland Chamber of Commerce holiday luncheon last week as the entertainment.

The reason Stites won my undying admiration and friendship has to do with my self esteem. Nearly a year ago, my self confidence was cruelly battered at a Wayne Chamber of Commerce luncheon, and my new hero Stites placed a very large psychological Band-aid on my ego last week.

He managed this feat of emotional first aid by singing his heart out while members of the combined chambers walked out on him. Yep, they did. This man sings like God smiled on him. He has a voice that Johnny Mathis would envy and most other singers would kill for. He has power, range, technique and above all, real talent. People spend $30 to $50 a seat to hear Stites perform the role of Marius in one of the best musicals to hit the stage in a decade, and the very busy members of the Wayne and Westland chambers of commerce walked out while he sang for them. I hope I never get to be that important.

Members of this same group walked out on me during a talk I was invited to give to them several months ago, and it impacted severely on my opinion of my public speaking ability. I knew my material was great, after all, I stole it from a master speaker.

When I saw them walk out on Stites' gorgeous voice and wonderful stage manner, I knew that they would walk out on the second coming of Christ if it wasn't convenient for them.

And, nobody has ever walked out on my cheesecake...yet. This is one of my favorites, and is wonderful for holiday entertaining. Enjoy it and Merry Christmas.

Chocolate cheesecake

10-inch springform pan, buttered and chilled

Crust:
2 cups crushed vanilla wafers
5 tablespoons butter, melted
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cocoa

Blend well. Press onto bottom and sides of the springform pan.

Filling:
4 eggs, separated
1 cup plus 6 tablespoons granulated sugar
12 ounces semisweet chocolate
1/2 cup extra-strong black coffee
1 teaspoon plus 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Shaved bitter chocolate for garnish

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine egg yolks with 1/2 cup of the sugar and beat until light and lemony.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler with coffee and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Let cool.

In an electric mixer, beat the cheese until smooth, add the yolk mixture, blend well, then add the cooled chocolate and coffee. Beat the egg whites with 1/2 cup of the sugar until stiff, but not dry and fold into the chocolate cheese mixture. Spoon into prepared shell and bake for 1 hour. Turn off the oven, open oven door and allow cake to cool in oven for 1 hour. Refrigerate an hour before serving. Remove ring from springform and top cake with whipped cream that has been sweetened with 6 tablespoons granulated sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

As we sit down to dinner Christmas day, many of us will recall the Christmases past. Our memories of those long ago holidays often are of the favorite food our family members made. Here we have asked a few people to give us their favorite food memory.

Great-grandmother recalls feats

Up to six years ago, Ethel LaMar's Christmas gift to her family was always the same, a New Year's feast.

For a woman with 27 grandchildren and 34 great-grandchildren (at last count) cooking dinner was no small accomplishment.

"We had ham, turkey, chitlins, cakes, pie, salads and drinks," the Romulus woman recalled. "It took me a couple of days to make it. Then I said, 'Fix your plates. Mom is done.'"

At age 84, LaMar lets her children do the cooking today, but her meals remain a legend with the family, especially her sweet potato pie.

"I didn't make any kind but sweet potato," she said.

Twenty-five sweet potato pies to be exact - LaMar made a pie for each grandchild that came to dinner. Sometimes her husband took a picture of her with the finished products; they covered the dining room table.

"One of my grandsons always says, 'Grandma, I sure do miss your sweet potato pies'...the last one I fixed was in 1983," she said.

Made by scratch in the truest sense, LaMar's pies were never prepared from a recipe. She simply relied upon memories of her mother in the kitchen.

"I grew up watching her," LaMar said.

LaMar grew up in Georgia, one of six children. They were practice days for preparing massive meals.

Today, the walls of LaMar's apartment are coated with pictures of her family.

"That one's my greats," she said pointing to a display of baby pictures.

Cooking the holiday meals for her children was always exhausting, LaMar said, but it was a gift of love.

"God has blessed me to live to 84. My mother only lived to see two of her grandchildren."

Although LaMar did not supply the recipe below for sweet potato pie, it is sure to win a compliment or two.

Deep south sweet potato pie

1 1/2 cups sweet potatoes, boiled and mashed (canned may be used)
4 eggs
1/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons honey
3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup light cream
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 9-inch pie shell, unbaked

Mash the boiled sweet potatoes with a mixer until smooth. Beat four eggs very lightly and add to the sweet potatoes. Stir in the sugar and beat all together. Add honey, cinnamon and nutmeg with the ground ginger, cream, salt and vanilla flavoring, mixing to blend. Pour the mixture into an unbaked pie shell and bake in a preheated 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce the temperatures to 350 degrees and bake for 30 minutes longer, or until a knife inserted near the pie's center comes out clean. At this point the pie may be cooled and served with dollops of whipped cream or plain with a cold glass of sweet milk. Pie may also be served spread with 1/2 cup melted tart jelly over the baked pie, then spread with a meringue and browned. Serves six to eight.

French dish sparks memories

Are you one of those people who believe that turkey or ham are the only possible dishes to serve during the holidays?

Nothing against turkey or ham, but it's not true folks.

Many people have traditions of other dishes for the holiday season, including some that span generations of family get-togethers and celebrations.

For Tillie Lafave, of Canton Township, there is more to her family holiday dinner than the raw ingredients mixed in a bowl.

Her Tourtiere, which is more familiarly known as Canadian French Meat Pie, reminds her and members of her family of holiday dinners from back in the days when televisions were rare and Harry Truman was the new president of the United States.

"It gives us a lot of memories of my husband's family, and my mother-in-law," Lafave said. "We got along very well."

She was first treated to Tourtiere in 1945, when she and her late husband Earl were engaged and planning to marry the following year. Lafave put the period of time in some perspective for Canton residents.

"Meijer (Thrifty Acres) was just a cornfield back then," she said.

Today, the holidays are usually spent at the home of Lafave's son, who is a resident of Southfield.

But for Tillie Lafave, who has lived in Canton since Labor Day 1970, the meaning of the meal continues to go beyond food and into thoughts of those she has shared it with.

For those who would like to try this French-Canadian delight, the recipe follows:

Tourtiere (Canadian French Meat Pie)

1 1/2 pound lean ground pork (with no fat)
1 large onion, finely chopped
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 bayleaf, crushed
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon dried savory
3/4 teaspoon bacon fat
1/2 cup beef or chicken broth (Following are ingredients for the crust)
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup lard
1 egg yolk plus enough water to equal 1/3 cup

Roll the flour, salt and lard to make the pastry. Place bottom half of crust into eight-inch pie tin. Set aside.

Combine pork, onion, garlic and seasoning. Mix well. Melt bacon fat and add meat mixture. Cook 7 minutes until all lumps are gone. Add broth. Simmer 20 minutes. Add more broth if mixture is too dry.

Pack down in bottom crust. Place second crust over top. Place egg yolk/water glaze over top.

Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees 45 minutes.

The dish is very rich and serves six.

Cookie stirs memories

When Cathy Horste remembers the Christmas holidays of her childhood, she recalls a dainty, delicate pecan cookie that was made by a friend of her grandmother.

"Anna Folding lived across the street from my grandmother, Delena Wicker, in New Boston," Horste said.

"Every year Mrs. Folding would sit for hours shelling pecans for her cookies and then bake enough of them for all of her friends in town. She always gave some to my grandmother, and, consequently, I always sampled them during the holidays."

Although Mrs. Folding was a person of modest means, she always made sure she had enough money to buy the expensive ingredients required to make large batches of her pecan cookies, Horste said. It was an annual tradition, carried on by Mrs. Folding until her death, to provide the special treats for her New Boston area friends.

"She would never tell anyone the recipe. It was her special secret, and she would not reveal it to anyone, not even her best friends. The cookies were her proud gift to give, and she wanted them to remain her special gift," Horste said. "I searched for years for the recipe, and one day I found it in a 1983 edition of Ladies Home Journal, submitted by a woman from Texas."

Horste immediately baked a batch of the cookies and brought them to her grandmother to determine if the recipe was the same one that Mrs. Folding had used for her pecan cookies.

Pecan Comucopias

Dough:

1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 envelope dry yeast
4 cups all-purpose flour
1 1/2 cup butter
4 egg yolks

Filling:

1/2 pound shelled pecans, chopped fine

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon vanilla

Set dough ingredients out to reach room temperature before beginning. Warm the milk needed for the dough (not too hot) and stir the sugar and yeast into it and let stand for 10 minutes. Measure the flour into a big bowl, and stir in the yeast and mix it into the flour. Then add the egg yolks. Knead well until the mixture is smooth and shape into balls.

Use a heavy saucepan to heat the milk and other filling ingredients, adding the vanilla last.

Pinch off circles of dough and spread flat. Place a dollop of filling into the center of each and roll into a horn of plenty, closing the end.

Baking time will vary, according to the size of the cookie.

Classical food is served by couple

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Classical food preparation is the theme at the Plymouth Township restaurant Italian Cucina.

Husband and wife team Libby Eaton and Chef Tim Coyne have strived to keep old-fashioned quality in their products while utilizing the healthy cooking styles that are popular today.

"Basically, everything here is fresh and prepared in-house," Eaton said. "We don't do anything deep fried."

Since the restaurant opened approximately one year ago, it has been recognized for its fare. The Italian Cucina minestrone soup was pronounced best in the metro area in a recent Italian-American Minestrone Cook-Off.

Eaton also boasted about the restaurant veal parmesan, prime rib, pasta and an extensive dessert selection.

Especially popular, she said, is the Frangelico chicken. The recipe calls for sauteed chicken breast encrusted in almonds. It is served with a cream sauce.

"Everything is done from a natural state," Coyne said.

Coyne said his cooking style and philosophy were developed during his work at the Golden Mushroom restaurant in Southfield. Classical cooking methods were emphasized there, he said.

"People are losing classical food preparation. A lot of the restaurants are so trendy they're killing it," he said.

Everything served at Italian Cucina is prepared in house from pasta to bread sticks.

"We roast bones for our stock," Coyne said.

Coyne is also anxious to introduce people to unique dishes such as rabbit and pheasant.

"Instead of charging $35 or $40 I charge $14 or $15 for exotic dishes. I try and give them the lower price so they'll be more adventurous."

Another taste of tradition — the restaurant serves meals

Italian family style every Sunday. A style for the truly hungry, seven main courses are served on large platters to be passed around the table.

"It's more like a family atmosphere for serving dinner," Coyne said. "It's very filling."

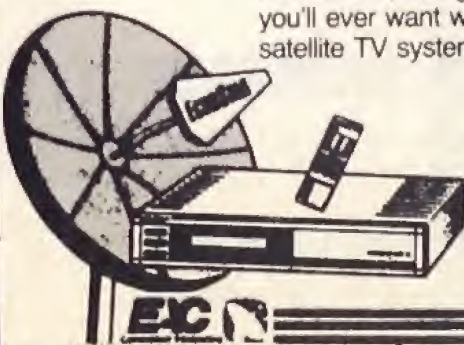

Italian Cucina is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. for lunch Tuesday through Friday, from 4 to 10 p.m. for dinner Tuesday through Thursday, 4 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from noon to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

The restaurant is located on Ann Arbor Road south of Interstate-275.

Bears are stars in area home

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

When Jim and Debby Rubis of Canton Township decorate their home for Christmas, it has anything but the store-bought look.

The Rubis', who have lived in Canton for slightly less than a year, draw on their own experiences to turn their already artistic home into a unique Christmas setting.

"It's almost like this has to be like a doll house or a fantasy house," said Debby Rubis.

The Rubis' and three generations of their family, operate Rubis Collections, a fine arts store in Westland.

But Jim Rubis will be the first to say that it is his wife whose artistic talents make both their business and their home special.

"Every season, she changes," he said.

From their two trees - decorated mostly with ornaments Debby made - to the hand-made garland to the hand-carved Santa Claus, the house is filled with the artistic talents of Debby Rubis.

She learned much of her trade at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit.

But after concentrating on portrait painting and wood ornaments in her early years, she decided in 1985 to begin working on wood carvings.

A large portion of her carvings are bears, which she also collects in the stuffed variety.

While the Christmas decorations add to the aura of the house, the bears stay on display year round.

"The bears will always be out," she said. "They bring out the child in a person."

These bears (above) are anxious to help decorate the Rubis Christmas tree. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

According to Jim, the bears are one of most integral parts of the house.

"Jim says there's seating capacity for about one," she said. "Usually, all the couches are filled with bears."

The house contains approximately 80 carved bears and 200 stuffed bears, the Rubis' said.

The Rubis' have been especially enthusiastic about their Christmas project this year because the house is their first. For the past seven years, they lived in a townhouse in Taylor.

That did not mean they were not creative, but an entire house is a chance to expand the decoration.

Outside the house, they have placed a large gift-wrapped package - a symbol that the spirit of Santa Claus is there - and Debby Rubis is planning to construct a giant angel that will also grace the outside as well as a sign with the holiday message, "Noel."

Much like their business, the decoration of the house has been a family affair.

The Rubis children - Jennifer, 13, Joel, 6, and Kyle, 2 - decorated the tree in the back portion of the house.

And while Christmas is special in the Rubis house, it is not the only holiday that earns attention.

"I had a real cute Halloween setup," Debby said. "And now I'm already planning what I'm going to do for Easter."

But as for future Christmases, plans for what will happen are still up in the air.

Heart is part of decor

Art is the heart of holiday decorations at the home of Louis and Jane Kovach, of Van Buren Township.

A grapevine tree, adorned with bunches of dried flowers, is the focus of the Kovach's living room decorations. A small tree, made from evergreen branches, decorates the fireplace, and handmade wreaths adorn the walls along with wooden angels and a painting by Jane Kovach.

The holidays, she believes, should be a time to display one's own expressions of the season, and each year Jane selects different kinds of displays - all handmade of natural substances - to keep with the spirit of Christmas.

Jane is an artist, who has studied at Wayne County Community College, Washtenaw Community College and the University of Michigan. She paints in oils, as well as drawing, printmaking and creating frescos. A display of her multimedia works was featured in the Fred C. Fischer Library when she has honored as an artist of the month. Her best-known work, a painting of the old Belleville railroad depot, was among the works displayed.

Claire and Dan Hiaeshutter's home is filled with Christmas memories.

Claire, the real force behind the Christmas decorating, doesn't stop with a Christmas tree and a few knick knacks.

This mother of two teens keeps the holiday spirit alive in everything she does all season, despite the kidding she may receive from her children.

"Meet Ward and June," said 19-year-old daughter Becky, referring to the television parents of Beaver Cleaver.

"Christmas is a time to be creative," said Claire, a Michigan Bell employee.

Her creativity is displayed in several ways, from her hand-made ornaments on the tree to the dozens of cookies she makes each year to the tree she and her family created for the Festival of Trees.

"Ninety-nine percent of the ornaments are handmade," she said. "I kind of like the country homemade look."

Claire said she stays with the traditional red and green Christmas decorations because she likes the traditional look more.

The family tree stands neatly in a corner of the living room. It features miniature white lights and ornaments made by Claire's mother.

Mary Gibas refused to limit her home decorations to the traditional red and green trimmings this Christmas.

The Romulus resident chose a different theme for each of the three rooms she decorated, beginning with a front door covered with foil wrapping paper.

Behind the door, highlighted by a grapevine wreath and garland, is a living room done up in soft pink and mauve.

Gibas, with help from her daughters and grandson Jacob Koch, created a Victorian Christmas scene.

"I went to a lot of classes, and they said you don't have to use red and green. You can do whatever you want," Gibas said.

Gibas and her family began the decorations with a tree based on one she and her daughter Barbara trimmed last year for the Festival of Trees fundraiser. The annual event challenges area residents to trim trees to raise money for Detroit Children's Hospital.

Gibas calls her tree Victorian Fancie. Glowing with soft white lights, it displays potpourri balls in nylon nets, cinnamon sticks and pink flowers. Instead of strings of popcorn, Gibas wrapped the tree in mauve roping normally used for drapery.

The base of the tree is a wicker basket, surrounded by smaller baskets of potpourri.

Across the room is a display of pink candles and flowers. Flowers also highlight a display of the Madonna, a second grapevine wreath and a basket in the corner.

Gibas used flowers and veils from her daughter's recent wedding.

"She loves the Victorian theme," Gibas said.

The rest of the house does have a more traditional holi-

Putting the finishing touches on Christmas

Filling stockings with special treats

By LINDA SPARKMAN
ANP Special Writer

Just when you think you are done shopping, you realize you have yet to find the stocking stuffers.

Don't try to drown yourself in the fudge batter. I have a few ideas to fill that stocking.

Most popular are the "what-not-filled" stockings which are filled with whatever from just about anywhere.

Items for stockings typically run $5 dollars or less and are fun things and everyday necessities mixed into a gay assortment.

About half the people I talked with wrap the items individually.

Common goodies people reported using are Slinkys, y-yos or jacks, or coloring books and crayons, costume jewelry, socks, fancy soaps, make-up, books, barrettes, combs, brushes, pens and pencils, batteries, keychains, fruits, nuts and candies.

"Theme" stockings are popular, too.

For example, you might give an art student an assortment of inexpensive art supplies, or your little ballerina a stocking filled with dance tights.

One mother uses Christmas stockings as an excuse to indulge her grown children in "goofy little toys they liked as youngsters. I can't even tell you how many Slinkys I've gone through, she says."

Avoiding the rush at the grocery store

By LINDA SPARKMAN
ANP Special Writer

I honestly can say I haven't gone to the store in years to pick up any last-minute items I forgot.

Instead, I send my husband. Since he is quite good at it by now, I asked him to give me an idea on just what it's like.

His story is not pretty.

I say something really nice, such as, "Mike, could you please pick up some Cool Whip for our pumpkin pie? I'm sorry, but I forgot to get it last week."

What he hears is different: "Look buddy, if you want whipped cream on your pumpkin pie, you're gonna have to get it yourself."

Don't men and women see things differently?

I admit, when I stop to think he'll be leaving a toasty warm home filled with delicious aromas of our Christmas feast, I feel a little sympathetic thinking how cold his 1972 Volkswagen is.

But I usually disregard that thought quickly, reminding myself how nice it will be for him when he comes from the bitter cold into the toasty warm house.

Once at the store, he said he simply stands in the "husband" line which generally leads straight to the Cool Whip, then winds down four aisles down to the only check-out open and back to the parking lot.

By the time he makes it back home, we're impatient for the Cool Whip. His dinner has been in the oven warming so long the potatoes are more like oven-fried than mashed.

Well, I'm glad this little article gave me the opportunity to find out what is really going on with him and the Cool Whip.

Stay calm and enjoy

If stress kills, Christams shopping is lethal.

If you agree, you'll be happy to learn there are some stress-relieving techniques to help you enjoy the season.

According to Dr. William Fry, a Stanford Medical School psychiatrist quoted in Prevention Magazine, laughing stimulates your arm and leg muscles and gives your lungs, heart, back and torso a quick workout.

In addition, your blood pressure, heart rate and muscle tension subside, resulting in the welcome sensation of relaxation.

Can't laugh? Try imagery/ imagine the worst.

You can't find the turtle wagon? (Neither can I.) So now what? Keep calling Toys 'R Us every day? Run around to every store that's rumored to have the crazy thing?

No say the experts. You should imagine the worst thing you could have.

It will hate you and be forever twisted because his dream gift was not under the tree. He'll join forces with the evil turtles and torture you till the end of your days.

It is an amusing scenario. And remember, it's all done for your good health.

If laughing hasn't relieved you, try talking to a close friend, said William VanDerwill, clinical services supervisor at the Community Mental Health Center in Wayne.

house, except for some minor work, and Jane has enhanced it with her artistic skills.

"The tree is made from grapevines that we gathered and made into about 20 wreaths. The wreaths are placed on a frame with the largest - about 25 inches in diameter at the bottom - and one about five inches in diameter at the top," Jane said.

"Grapevines have to be pulled down periodically. We asked Elwell Road grape growers if we could have their old vines, and then we gathered them in the late fall," she said. "People who want to make wreaths or a grapevine tree can probably find some vines if they check around."

After the wreaths are assembled for the tree, Jane places bunches of dried wildflowers - many from her own garden - into the tree. Her colors range from white to deep red.

"I love the Christmas tree with the clumps of various colored flowers resembling the holiday balls on a traditional tree."

The tree could be decorated with one color - blues or reds - or an array of multicolored dried flowers to reflect the personal tastes of the household, she said.

Placed on the fireplace hearth of the Kovachs' home is a three-foot-high evergreen tree, made from branches cut from a length of roping.

"The inside of the tree is an oasis - a substance that holds water - frame into which the individual branches are placed. The varied lengths of branches are inserted into the frame, tapering toward the top," Jane said.

Hiaeshutter

She also has many ornaments from her brother and sister-in-law in Boston.

"Every Christmas, we exchange some type of unique Christmas ornament," she said.

Claire also brings out the Christmas dishes and the many miniature figurines she has been given and collects.

Each decoration carries special meaning, she said.

Claire said her favorite Christmases were when her children were young.

"They would get up so early. Now, I'm the one who gets up early. I have to wake everyone up," she said of her family.

Probably, the most important feature in her home isn't a decoration, but still is an integral part of the Hiaeshutter Christmas tradition - the double ovens.

Claire's double ovens allow her to bake thousands of cookies and other Christmas sweets.

"I couldn't live without it," she said.

The Hiaeshutter home is dressed like many homes were decorated in the past. There's no fancy silk decorations bought from a store or elaborated blown glass ornaments, still there is simple beauty in Claire's decorations.

"When the house is dressed up at Christmas time, it always seems warmer," her husband Dan said.

Gibas

day appearance though. Gibas' husband, Gene St., who made the grapevine wreaths, crafted a miniature grapevine Christmas tree for the kitchen. The tree is complete with a string of lights.

Gibas made a third wreath of evergreen for the fireplace in the dining room. She trimmed the mantel in red plaid skirting and attached baskets of blue ornaments to the walls.

On a nearby planter is a bird's nest her grandson made on a base of cinnamon sticks.

For Gibas, the decorating ideas came easily.

"When I started getting involved in the Festival of Trees, I really got into this with my girls. We're all getting into it now," she said.

The main rules Gibas sticks to when decorating are choosing specific themes and colors. She picks colors that highlight each other such as pink and mauve.

"I like to be really particular."

Baking up a cookie blizzard

Irma Kujat's family depends on her baking up a powdered-sugar blizzard every Christmas.

Kujat, 64, and her husband Rodney spend only a few months each year in Westland. But these two active retirees make the most of the time here.

"Oh, they've come to expect my cookies," Irma said of her eight children and 18 grandchildren.

"I get requests for special cookies. And a couple of my daughters are career women so they ask me to make cookies for them," she said.

Part of the reason her cookies are so special is Christmas is the time Irma sets aside for her family, and it's the only time she bakes cookies.

"I usually don't make them other times of the years," she said. "A lot of people don't bake anymore at all. They buy the cookie dough from the dairy case. I still like to do it from scratch."

During the winter months, the Kujat's spend time in the south. And during the spring and summer, they can be found managing the Metivier Inn, a bed and breakfast on Mackinac Island.

"Because we are away so much, well, that's why at Christmastime I do a lot of baking."

Kujat has included a very simple pressed cookie recipe.

Vanilla Press Cookies

1/2 pound oleo margarine
1 cup white sugar
3 cups All-purpose flour, sifted
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream oleo and sugar together. Add eggs. Add vanilla, creaming all the time. Sift flour, baking powder and salt, adding a little each time to oleo mixture. Put stiff batter in cookie press. Decorate cut-out cookie with colored sugar crystals. On an ungreased pan, bake at 350 degrees for eight to 10 minutes.

Armenian treat warms heart

The English have their plum pudding for Christmas, but what Armenians would dare celebrate a holiday, especially Christmas, without rice pilaf?

"There's rice pilaf, like the kind you get in the restaurants, then there's pilaf that is made by an Armenian," notes Steve Takesian. "Until you have tasted or eaten pilaf made by an Armenian chef, well you just had pilaf until you do."

The memories and the tradition of pilaf boiling in grandmother's kettle remain dear to Takesian, who learned the secret recipes from his grandparents and practices the art to this day.

Takesian said that the egg noodles — plus the chicken brother — play major roles in developing the unique taste of rice pilaf.

"Of course, there also must be a liberal amount of butter and when it all comes together, you'll know it's good from the aroma. It's unique. Delicious. What else can I tell you."

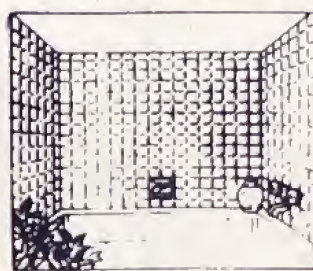

Takesian, 32, who serves as vice-chairman of the Inkster Cable Commission, and his wife, Kanla, have two sons, Sean, 4, and Scott, 3. He said he learned to cook "during his bachelor years, and when I got married, I just continued to do so."

Here is rice pilaf a la Takesian:

Rice pilaf
1/4 pound butter
Handful of thin whole wheat noodles
3 cups of rice
6 cups of chicken broth

Melt butter in large pot. Stir in noodles, then add rice, slowly stirring ingredients. When rice and noodles are completely coated in butter, add the chicken broth. Bring to boil and simmer for about 45 minutes or until all moisture is absorbed.
